

SUE KENT

Doing Things Differently

Sue Kent brings together her recent experience of being a TV presenter, with gardening knowledge and a unique life living with an upper limb disability.

Sue is a hugely engaging presenter with star quality. Her talks are engaging, interesting, fun and informative. She comes at life from an angle new to many of us but also completely relatable. She connects immediately with the audience through her infectious enthusiasm and her zest for life – and helps her audience to gain a greater understanding of how they can unlock their own abilities.

She creates talks of interest in the world of gardening, encouraging gardeners to reach their potential and shares her practical problem-solving techniques. For corporate events, Sue shares some of her life in a humorous and entertaining way, helping her audience to understand disability and explores the benefits of inclusivity.

Be it a talk about gardening, looking at disability and inclusion or looking at life in general, Sue delivers the positive message of resilience with entertainment and humour.

General talks

- The art of adaptation
- Designing with intent to enable

Gardening talks

- My evolving garden
- The quest for easy fruit and veg growing
- Creating a show garden with no experience
- Beautiful flower borders

To check Sue's diary, please call Diana Boulter at DBA Speakers on 07554 440537 or email diana@dbaspeakers.com